

University Adjustment System

Whereas each college must retain the flexibility to improve its curriculum, course offerings may be changed throughout a student's education. If a course required under a previous catalog is no longer offered, a student should consult with his or her academic advisor or dean to identify another course that may be used to fulfill the requirement. Course substitutions in the degree program are permitted only with the approval of the dean through the department head, program director, or academic advisor. Exceptions to Student Rules are permitted only with the approval of the Associate Provost for Undergraduate Studies through the college dean.

The University Adjustment System (UAS) allows advisors to submit adjustments and curricular exceptions for individual undergraduate students online, and those adjustments/exceptions are routed through electronic workflow for approval(s) and uploaded to Compass/Howdy. The UAS also allows advisors to track the routing of an adjustment and determine when it is complete.

Each college assigns a role to individuals requiring access to the system. Based on the role, the user can perform certain functions. There are four tasks an advisor can perform:

- Search for previously submitted adjustments/exceptions by the advisor
- Search for previously submitted adjustments for an individual student
- Create/submit an adjustment/exception request
- View denied requests

Adjustments are stored in the UAS for only one semester. All adjustments older than one semester will be imaged and sent to the student's permanent record. Should you need a copy of a one of these adjustments, please email degreeaudit@tamu.edu.
